Recently, the world has witnessed the power of people in a democracy, i.e., India. The POWER of people cannot be ignored, this fact has been proved again. And election is that tool which gives this power to the common man. Research on the history of elections in India, where were they conducted for the first time, how has the procedure changed over a period of time, the use of technology, etc. Also find out about the malpractices adopted by the corrupt people during the time of election and its adverse effects on the outcome. Based on your research, include some interesting facts about elections in India in your Integrated Holiday Homework.

ENGLISH

‘Leadership is not about the next election, it’s about the next generation’

Gather numbers and figures that inform you about the status of ‘Elections’ (how many candidates get involved in the process) in your country. Use that information to create a comic strip to encourage ‘Voting’ that will be published in leading newspaper and magazine. The comic strip may be in your regional language so that everybody can appreciate the need of voting and practice it too.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

- Political parties of India: Identify the national and major regional parties of India on a political map of India. Study the manifesto of these parties and prepare your own party manifesto (for your group) in detail. Important aspects of the manifesto should be kept in mind while preparing your own.
  - Party name and ideology
  - Party symbol
  - Vision/ Principle
  - Promises
  - Achievements of the past
  - Promises for the future etc.

Take these as sample guidelines and incorporate your own ideas to make an effective manifesto.

- Taking recent MCD elections in mind:
  - i) How many parties did contest for the same (with names)?
  - ii) Which party won?
  - iii) Who won in your area (name them)?
- Make a model according to your roll numbers on the following topics:
  - Roll no.1 to 10- Parliament house
  - Roll no. 11 to 20- Electronic Voting MachineWorking model will be appreciated.
